THE NEWSPAPER FOR MAIDSTONE, MALLING, LARKFIELD AND SURROUNDING VILLAGES

KILLER HANGS HIMSELF DAYS INTO SENTENCE

Treeby was guilty of murdering brother

A MAN who murdered his brother has killed himself just two days after a jury found him guilty.

Last Friday, Bill Treeby, 50, along with his sons Billy Treeby Jr, 29, and George Treeby, 23, were found guilty of killing Jack Treeby and wounding his brother Gary Treeby.

A spokesman for HM Prison Service issued a statement after Bill was found dead just after 3pm on Sunday, December 12: "Bill Treeby was found hanging in his cell at HMP Elmley, (Sheppey). Attempts were made to resuscitate him, but he was pronounced dead at 3.46pm. As with all deaths in custody, there will be an investigation by the Prisons and Probation Ombudsman."

The murderer was due to be sentenced along with his son's today.

During the past ten weeks a jury at Maidstone Crown Court had heard how victim Jack Treeby, 43, was fatally hit by a Range Rover during a frenzied attack in a quiet Tovil street a year ago.

The three men were all found guilty while a fourth member of the group, Bill's wife, Charity Treeby, was found not guilty of murder. The killers were also convicted of the attempted murder of Bill's younger brother Gary Treeby, 40, who was blasted with a shotgun.

Detective Chief Inspector Rob Vinson, from Kent and Essex Serious Crime Directorate, said: "This was a family dispute that erupted in to violence. With the weapons used and the reckless attitude of those involved, we are thankful that no-one else was seriously injured."

"I am pleased that a jury has found all four guilty of their part in the events of that night and three of them will be going to prison for a long time."

CONSTRUCTIVE: Toby Smith and Nick Lindsay are part of the team building the East Wing

Our boys help construct the town's future

■ BY JOE BILL

TWO Maidstone lads can take extra pride in their work as they have been drafted in to help build the new East Wing of Maidstone Museum.

Toby Smith, an 18-year-old carpenter, and 22-year-old builder Nick Lindsay have landed jobs with construction firm Morgan Sindall as they prepare the extension for opening early next year.

Toby had previously worked for other big building companies and passed the City and Guilds certificate in carpentry.

He's currently working on the East Wing roof putting protective plywood down so that the new build can become watertight for the winter.

Meanwhile, Nick is busy cutting the steelwork at the moment. He has a national diploma in construction.

The pair went to Maplesden Noakes School in Maidstone and they both wanted to go into the building trade when they left.

Toby said: "We really like working on the museum extension, we used to visit the museum when we were at school."

"Our favourite exhibit was the 2,000 year old mummy. By working on the extension it feels like we're giving something back to the people of Maidstone and being part of creating an amazing new landmark for the town."

Their employer, Morgan Sindall, is well known for its regeneration work and employs more than 7,000 people nationwide.

Site manager, Ian Lock said: "We like to employ local people wherever possible. It helps boost the local economy and workers have a greater sense of pride in their work."

Regeneration chief, Cllr Malcolm Greer, said: "It's great to see our young people getting these building jobs. It really does mean that investment in our town is going directly into local people's pockets. I can't praise Morgan Sindall enough for making this a reality."

Protect your presents from the car thieves

POLICE are warning against a possible rise in car crime as the Christmas season rolls in.

The Safer Maidstone Partnership is staging a crackdown on car crime as part of the Stay safe this Christmas campaign and is advising people if they display valuables in their cars, they could pay for it.

Signs will be going up across town centre car parks warning people to keep any presents or possessions hidden from view.

Parking attendants and town centre police patrols will be taking registrations of cars displaying valuables and a letter will be sent to the owners explaining how to protect themselves in future.

John Grant, crime prevention manager for the Community Safety Unit said: "We are focusing this week on thefts from cars, which historically have risen as a result of the festive season with people leaving presents on display."

"Bags of shopping should not be left on view in cars, as they could be stolen by thieves. Never leave a handbag on view in a parked and unattended car."

Maidstone's budget cut lower than most

MAIDSTONE Council overall income will drop by 4.3 per cent following the announcement by of central government budget cuts on Monday.

Maidstone's overall reduction is lower than most councils in Kent – nearby Ashford borough and Thanet have suffered the maximum reduction.

The cuts have been imposed through a reduction in government grants and an enforced freeze on raising council tax for at least two years.

The decision comes as part of the new Localism Bill which aims to shift power from central government and down to local councils and neighborhoods.

Communities secretary Eric Pickles, said: "It is the centrepiece of what this Government is trying to do to fundamentally shake up the balance of power in this country."

"For too long, everything has been controlled from the centre – and look where it's got us. Central government has kept local government on a tight leash, strangling the life out of councils in the belief that bureaucrats know best."

"By getting out of the way and letting councils and communities run their own affairs we can restore civic pride."

Murder caught on CCTV cameras

During the trial, which started in October, the jury were told how a family dispute over land, led to the dispute.

On December 27, 2009, a number of family members, including Jack and Gary, met at their sister's home in Quarry Road.

The group recalled was standing outside the driveway of the house, and watched a Range Rover driving into the road followed by a Ford Mondeo. All of this was recorded on nearby CCTV.

The CCTV also showed someone leaning out of an open passenger window brandishing a shotgun.

At the same time audio, recovered from a separate CCTV source, recorded a gunshot as the group outside the house took cover. Both the Range Rover and the Mondeo, driven by the murderers, crashed into parked cars along the road.

Judge Andrew Patience QC then heard how the Range Rover turned around to make a second pass of the house and Gary was shot.

The vehicle mounted the pavement and ran down Jack, killing him almost instantly.

CCTV footage showed a woman and two men standing over Gary, who was bleeding from his shotgun wound, he was then beaten with an iron bar.

The 4x4 then left the area while the Mondeo was abandoned nearby.

Witnesses stated that they later saw Bill's wife Charity return to the Mondeo and set it alight.

Shortly after the incident a motorist contacted police with concern after being overtaken dangerously by a Range Rover with three people in the car. The motorist followed the car to a farm in Darman Lane, Paddock Wood.

Charity was arrested in the early hours of December 28, while police found the burned out Range Rover in a field off Tong Lane, near Horsmonden, on December 29.

George and Billy Jnr gave themselves up to police on December 30 while their father, Bill, was arrested the following day. The group had all pleaded not guilty to murder and attempted murder.

Villagers warming to farm's solar park plan

■ BY JOE BILL

A VILLAGE could one day run on solar power alone, if an energy-conscious farmer has his way.

Andrew Barr, who co-owns the A&A Barr Farm in Lenham, is prepared rent one of his fields as a "solar park" to soak up the sun's rays and generate electricity.

Mr Barr, 39, whose family has owned the land since 1903, is working with German power company Kronos Solar to apply for planning permission from Maidstone council.

He said: "We have been looking for a few years at renewable energy. We have considered wind turbines and biomass boilers to help run the farm, especially with the rising price of fossil fuels and electricity.

"We also looked at having solar power installed on top of the farm, but when this popped up it seemed like the best option. It could generate enough power in future to run Lenham."

Plans for the solar park on Ham Lane are already with the council, which has asked for an environmental investigation statement. The scheme would involve the installation of a possible 20,000 solar panels in the field.

Mr Barr said: "The best thing about it is the panels are very low to the floor and placed on poles that go into the ground, no concrete is needed.

"The power will go directly into the main grid and there are power cables nearby which will really benefit the village.

SEEN AND HERD: Alan Barr, who co-owns the A&A Barr Farm in Lenham with his brother, Andrew

"Also there will still be enough room in the middle of the field for sheep to graze."

The farm team, which includes Andrew, his brother Alan and his father, have even spoken to Kronos about having solar panels put on the village community centre.

Andrew said: "My father sits on the parish council and we have discussed with Kronos about putting it on the building, that would help bring more money to the village."

If it is built to the original plans, it could be one of the largest solar parks in the UK. The farm consists of two-thirds arable land including rape seed and a third livestock including Romney sheep and Sussex cattle.

Andrew added: "It's all still at the exploratory stage but we had a consultation with people in the village and almost everyone was in favour."

Happier Christmas, but not for crooks

SEVEN people were arrested across mid-Kent in organised raids as part of a day of action by the police.

There were 68 arrests in total across Kent and Essex as officers looked to target suspected criminals before Christmas. The Maidstone arrests included a 51-year-old man, a 27-year-old man and an 18-year-old for burglary, while a further two 18-year-old men were arrested for theft.

Assistant Chief Constable Alan Pughsley, who leads the Kent and Essex Serious Crime Directorate, said: "We are sending out a clear message that we will not tolerate criminals causing harm in our communities.

"We are listening and responding to what residents are telling us concerns them most and are tackling criminality at all levels – from those involved in burglary and other theft-related crime, those who handle stolen goods, and those who use, deal and supply drugs which can fuel all other types of offending.

"As Christmas approaches, we have taken criminals off the streets of both counties so they cannot ruin the festive period with their criminal behaviour.

"The message we are sending out is: Don't commit crime in Kent and Essex, because we will catch you and bring you to justice."

Fighting for charity

FIREFIGHTERS and police officers squared off against each other in a series of charity boxing matches to raise cash for charity.

The night, held at Liquid nightclub in Maidstone, was in aid of the Help For Heroes charity, with the fighters managing to raise £5,000.

The police team took the title eventually running out 9-8 winners.

ANPR system takes suspects off the roads

ILLEGAL drivers have been shown the red light after a two-week police clampdown.

Officers from the automatic number plate recognition (ANPR) team bagged 27 vehicles in west Kent.

The operation saw the arrest of Christian Buckman, 22, of Lenside Drive, Bearsted, who has been charged with three counts of making off without paying for fuel.

The officers also made three arrests for theft from motor vehicles, issued 18 summonses and 46 penalty notices.

Threat

Twenty-seven cars were seized for having no insurance, including two being used in a crime.

Martin Lyddon, ANPR manager at Kent Police, said: "This operation has removed people from the roads of Kent who posed a threat to law-abiding motorists and we are fully committed to continually doing this.

"Every day, ANPR technology is identifying road users who are of interest to the police and it continues to be an absolutely crucial tool in proactively tackling crime and bringing about positive results for victims of crime."

MPs and train chiefs in Commons session

MAIDSTONE and Weald MP Helen Grant has met Southeastern train chiefs to discuss the travel misery being endured by passengers on the Kent network.

Even before snow caused travel chaos for commuters, Mrs Grant said she had received hundreds of letters and emails from constituents angry about rising fares and falling standards on the railway.

Letters included details of increased fares, dirty and inadequate rolling stock, delays, cancellations and lack of communication.

Mrs Grant said: "From the letters, calls and emails I and others have received from angry travellers, it is plain to me and fellow MPs that there are serious shortcomings on Southeastern and something has to be done to rectify the situation."

The Tory MP chaired a meeting at the House of Commons last week, attended by Southeastern's MD Charles Horton, service delivery director Vince Lucas and public affairs manager Mike Gibson.

Afterwards, Mrs Grant said: "It was a constructive meeting, well attended by Kent MPs, but we must continue campaigning robustly to improve services which frankly, in some areas, are diabolical."

Mrs Grant's office told Yourmaidstone that Southeastern had promised to keep her up to date, outlining what short-term actions managers intend to take to ensure the poor service seen in recent weeks is not repeated.

"In conversations with my colleagues, it was clear we are all receiving very similar communications from constituents relating to Southeastern," Mrs Grant said.

"So it made sense for as many Kent MPs as possible to meet with senior management.

Problems

"I am delighted Southeastern has seen the wisdom of such an approach and I am sure that working together as a team we can find solutions to constituents' problems and help Southeastern Trains provide value for money rail travel."

Other Kent Conservative MPs at the meeting included Rehman Chisti (Gillingham and Rainham), Mark Reckless (Rochester), Tracey Crouch (Chatham and Aylesford), and Hugh Robertson (Faversham and Mid Kent).

SALON STYLE: Karen Millen came to Maidstone to see her friends open new flagship hairdressing store, Doo-das

Top designer helps to launch friends' store

A FASHION megastar popped back into town to help launch the new flagship store of a renowned Maidstone hairdresser.

Designer Karen Millen officially opened the new Doo-das salon in Bank Street as more than 200 people packed the luxury venue.

Owners David Worthy and Jez Hawkins were also celebrating the 28th anniversary of the business which has grown to have three stores in the county town, Canterbury and Loose.

The pair celebrated with a Champaign reception, tour of the new facilities and a visit from their good friend Karen.

The new salon has taken over from the previous shop in Lower Stone Street, an idea that has been a long time in the making.

Jez, 48, said: "Karen used to have a shop in Maidstone when she first started out. But I actually used to live opposite her in the town for a while. I just used to wave and say hello. "David then got to know her better later on, so our paths have crossed a few times really."

With three treatment rooms, 19 hair and beauty stations, a tanning booth and a nail bar, Jez and David have gone all out to cater for everyone.

■ BY JOE BILL

Work began on the new branch back in August with all new stations, air vents, glass ware and snake skin chairs to be specially designed and fitted.

The business will also employ more than 20 staff and has chosen energy-conscious low voltage light bulbs.

Jez said: "We have always wanted to move further in to town because there was not enough walk-past clientele in the last place.

"We are delighted with the way it has turned out, now we can finally afford to move further in, but it has been a 20-year plan.

"We wanted to create a salon like no other in Maidstone and I think we have done that."

Both Jez and David have known their star guest Karen for a number of years but were still delighted when she made herself available for the big opening.

Doo-das, in true red carpet style, also gave away goody bags to guests with up to £40 of hair and beauty products inside.

Karen was delighted to head back to her home town and do her friends a favour. She said: "As a local girl myself, I am really pleased to be opening this lovely salon for local people to use."

MP Grant's fruitful parliament position

MP Helen Grant took up a new position in parliament this week showing her roots in the garden of England.

The Maidstone Tory was appointed Secretary of the Associate Parliamentary British Fruit Industry Group which looks to support fruit growers in Kent and the UK.

The group immediately set about tackling issues facing the industry including the use of casual workers, the use of pesticides and poly-tunnels.

Helen said: "I am delighted to be able to represent the views of the many fruit growers in my constituency.

Being a Member of Parliament for a constituency in the Garden of England it is only right that I do my best to promote and support the many fruit farmers in

SUPPORT: Helen Grant with fruit grower Ken Jenner

Maidstone and the Weald, and across the county.

"The meeting was exceptionally well attended and I hope the Group continues to prosper. Having just been presented with some prize-winning apples by a constituent a few weeks ago, it is great timing to be able to get the Group underway."

Donate some happiness over the festive season

MAIDSTONE'S neighbourhood watch team are once again appealing for toy donations to brighten up a child's Christmas.

The association will be handing out toys to the Children's Trust in Maidstone who help youngsters with multiple disabilities and their families.

Once collected, the presents will be donated to the shop in Gabriel's Hill, Maidstone, to be distributed to children in the local area and beyond.

The appeal is being organised by The Chairman of the Neighbourhood Watch Association, Ken Stevens.

He said: "We had such a great response from the donations last year, with more gifts being donated than ever before and it would be great if we could beat the figure again this year.

"It's such a delight to see the joy that these gifts bring to the children who receive them and helps take some of the pressure off families over the festive season.

"We ask that the donated toys are left unwrapped, but we are very happy to accept gifts of wrapping paper."

The toys are being collected in the foyer of Maidstone town hall until December 20.

BY MARIJKE COX

ONE of Kent's newest MPs has rebelled against his own party in the controversial tuition fees dispute, claiming he could not justify supporting the motion.

Mark Reckless, MP for Rochester and Strood, was one of just six Tories to vote against the changes to fees, despite newly appointed members of parliament traditionally towing the party line.

He said: "I was one of the 302 who voted against that government proposal. Five other Conservative and 21 Lib Dem colleagues joined me in the 'No' lobby."

Fellow Tory, Medway colleague Tracey Crouch, who won the Chatham and Aylesford seat in May, also chose not to vote with her party, but abstained.

Despite the revolt, the proposed changes to tuition fees were passed after the majority voted in favour.

This means from 2012 universities will be allowed to charge up to £9,000 a year.

The bill also included changes to the payback threshold, where students will not have to pay anything back until they earn £21,000 – a rise from the current £15,000.

Ms Crouch said although she disagreed with the £9,000 cap, she chose to abstain rather than vote against due to her support of other new measures being introduced.

"I feel the £9,000 figure is far too high. I'm disappointed for the next generation of students," she said. "I do, however, support the payback threshold of £21,000."

She added: "People have respected my position, which shows we have grown-up politics."

Mr Reckless, however, said it was not easy to vote with only a minority.

He paid tribute to Ms Crouch, stating she was as principled in her abstention as those who voted for or against.

Explaining his own reasons for rebelling, he said: "I found it particularly difficult to justify

GOING AGAINST THEIR PARTY: Mark Reckless voted against and Tracey Crouch abstained

County MPs rebel in tuition fees vote

the suddenness of the move with one student required to pay only around £3,000 but then another student, potentially a sister, just one year behind at school, expected to pay two or three times more with very little warning.

"I also believe that as MPs we should make decisions and whenever possible try and explain those likely decisions before an election, rather than use a report from someone who is not elected, however distinguished, to justify a decision (the Browne Report).

"I was enormously impressed by the students who put their case to me on this issue.

"They asked me why they should have to pay so much when Welsh and Scottish, and in many cases EU, students did not have to pay at all.

"I then showed David Willetts, the universities minister, detailed statistics showing that 46 per cent of EU students due to repay a loan from the British taxpayer were in default.

"I have also asked government ministers how they can justify an 80 per cent decrease in grant to universities in the context of a 60 per cent increase in our net payments to the EU.

"I cannot justify it and voted accordingly."

CHER'S IN TOWN

The X-Factor has finally come to a close and the winners have been announced but the fun will not be stopping in Maidstone.

Fourth placed Cher Lloyd will be heading to Liquid nightclub this Friday night to perform her first live gig since the show finished.

Cheryl Cole's protégé missed out on a top three spot after her rendition of Where is the Love? By the Black Eyed Peas.

The 17-year-old from Worcestershire will now kick off the rest of her musical career at the Lockmeadow Complex in front of the county town's reality show fanatics.

QUESTION & ANSWER

GEOFF ORTON

Q What is your title?

A My official title is outdoor events organiser, a voluntary role; I arrange and sometimes lead monthly wildlife walks in Kent throughout the year.

Q How did you become involved in the Kent Wildlife Trust Medway, Maidstone and Swale Group?

A It is a long story, but suffice to say that I was a founder member of the Medway Group more than 30 years ago and held various roles with that group. That then eventually merged to form the Maidstone, Medway and Swale group.

Q What exactly does the group do?

A We are the local body of the Kent Wildlife Trust. We put on a program of events in our area for people interested in the natural wildlife of the county. During the autumn, winter and spring we run a series of indoor talks, slideshows and social events each month and the outdoor events take place every month apart from August.

Q Have you always been interested in wildlife or have you developed your passion?

A As a child I lived in central London and became interested in wildlife after a school visit to Kew gardens where I saw chaffinches for the first time as well as some enormous carp in the ornamental lakes.

I created my first bird book by collecting Brooke Bond Tea cards and putting them into an album, which cost me just six (old) pence!

Q Do you have any other passions and hobbies? What are they and why?

A My main passion remains birds and birding and I'm currently involved in surveying parts of Kent to help gather data for the 2007/2011 British Bird Atlas.

I also have a passion for travelling and photography and have recently returned from a trip to Botswana in Africa.

Q Who was your childhood hero and why?

A My childhood hero was David Attenborough and he still is a hero to me. I have always enjoyed his TV series right back to the Zoo Quest days.

Q Where would you like to be in five years time (both the wildlife trust and yourself)?

A Hopefully we will give more talks to members of the public, groups of many different complexions, and particularly young people. I can see Kent Wildlife Trust being at the forefront of this. Education at all levels is key to conserving and enjoying our remaining 'wild' areas in Kent.

Q If you could have any other job in the world what would it be and why?

A I would like to be one of the reporters on BBC's Springwatch and Autumnwatch programmes because I would like to share my enthusiasm for British wildlife. I would also like to increase the understanding that much of our wildlife is migratory and depends on good conservation in many other parts of Europe and the world as well as the UK itself.

Q What do you consider your greatest achievement at your job?

A It was being presented with the Marsh Volunteer Award for nature conservation in 2006 for my work with Kent Wildlife Trust.

Q What is the worst thing about your job?

A It has got to be meeting deadlines, but that is generally under my control.

Q What is your favourite animal and/or plant and why?

A Brent Geese are a favourite, they winter in north Kent but spend a brief summer north of the Arctic Circle in Siberia nesting on open ground and raising up to five goslings. October/November is when the geese begin to arrive on the Swale and Medway and I can check how many goslings they have managed to bring safely with them. That is magical.

Widespread condemnation at plan to dig up woodland

ANGRY campaigners are continuing to fight plans which would see an area of Maidstone woodland dug up to making way for a ragstone quarry.

More than 100 local people turned out for the latest public meeting in which representatives from Kent County Council (KCC) and construction firm Gallagher Group tried to gauge reaction.

The Protect Kent team and the Wildlife Trust have joined forces to oppose the extension of the Hermitage quarry, which is already in operation nearby.

A Facebook group petition group against the Gallagher Group has swelled to more than 1,500 members.

The construction firm has said that there is a high demand for ragstone, which is used in the restoration of historic buildings, including Canterbury Cathedral. They also argue that should the quarry close down and not be extended more than 50 people will lose their jobs and it will have a negative impact on the local economy.

A spokesman for the construction firm said: "We have been quarrying at the Hermitage Lane site for 20 years.

"We understand the range of issues that must be considered including the protection of the public and the environment, and we have a proven track record of high-quality restoration, habitat creation and environmental care."

But the Oaken Wood supporters are standing firm and let both KCC and the Gallagher Group know what they think of the plans.

Wildlife

Local residents raised concerns over blasting noise and vibration, the loss of ancient sweet chestnut coppice woodland and potential damage to wildlife in the area.

On the Wildlife Trust website their mission statement for Oaken Wood said: "Gallagher Ltd has suggested there will be a benefit for wildlife from the proposals through the management of the remaining woodland and the creation of new habitats, including native woodland, scrub, meadow and pond.

"We disagree. Ancient woodland is irreplaceable. Ancient woodland is the most important UK wildlife habitat for the number of species of conservation concern that are supported, as well as the thousands of everyday species which complete the ecosystem.

"The replacement of such a valuable, continuous habitat by the creation of a number of small and immature habitats can only result in a major long-term loss in biodiversity."

The construction firm has stated that the new quarry extension area would take up 33 hectares, roughly 14 per cent of Oaken Wood as a whole.

A KCC spokesman said: "Representatives from the council's planning applications committee visited the site and hosted a well attended public meeting on Tuesday evening to hear firsthand the concerns of local people on the planning application to extend Hermitage Quarry.

"The comments raised will be considered by the county council as part of the planning application process. The application is expected to be determined early in 2011. Residents can write giving their views to the Planning Applications Group at Kent County Council."

Legendary 'Stick Man' a tale of the unexpected

■ BY NICK AMES & THOMAS BETTS

AMONG the strangest legends in Britain is the story of the 'Stick Man' of Loose – a bizarre creature which seems to have haunted a group of young people.

It is one of many tales gathered together by writer Neil Arnold as part of his book, Paranormal Kent, which looks into the county's darker side.

His book tells how on January 14, 2003, a person named only as Simon posted a story on the forum of Portean Times magazine, which covers stories of strange phenomena.

It states: "I will record a rather unpleasant experience which took place tonight.

"A group of about ten of us were sitting chatting in the Loose Valley at about midnight.

"After about 45 minutes, Will leapt to his feet slapping his head saying there was a bee in his hair; he looked absolutely terrified.

"Both Dorothy and I saw the outline of a tall, thin figure wearing a hat dancing behind him.

"Will said later it was as if a terrifically loud buzzing was coming up through the top of his head. However, only Rachel heard any buzzing.

Thin figure

"We partially satisfied ourselves that it must have been a bees' nest, and so we moved a little distance away. As we moved away, Dorothy and I saw a ring outlined in the grass which enclosed where we had been sitting.

"Eventually it started raining, so we headed for Rachel's house. As we left, I turned around and saw the same thin, black figure walk across the opening between the trees to where we had been sitting.

"We had been sitting in Rachel's bedroom for a while, when I looked at Will, who was reading, and saw an amorphous black blob drop out of his hair on to the bed. I was the only one who saw this.

"A few seconds later a black shape started whizzing around. The main movement was from bottom left to top right as I was sitting, getting larger during the movement and inducing a great fright. About four people altogether saw this.

"Later, the girls slept in a room together. Apparently Rachel and Molly saw the black blob in the curtains during the night.

"I, however, had an excellent night's sleep.

"On first awakening I saw the thin black figure silhouetted against the wardrobe doors. I must admit I lost my calm last night and was bloody terrified by the whole thing."

The legend of the stick man is one that is included in several cultures – most notably some native American tribes who believe them to be malevolent entities.

However, the Loose myth is possibly the only

Pictures NICK AMES

BRANCHING OUT: Could sinister shapes made by the trees in the dark of the night have prompted sightings of the Loose 'Stick Man'? Loose resident Roy Hood, below, believes an old wood collector could be at the heart of the legend recorded instance of the story appearing in Britain.

Villagers say that it is possible the shadows cast by a number of trees could have been the cause of the apparition.

Roy Hood, who has lived in Loose for 80 years, also has an explanation.

"There was a man who used to cut wood and he would often be seen with bundles of sticks around him – maybe that was the origin of the legend," he said.

WORLDWIDE: There are now 272 Confucius Classrooms in 88 countries

New line of teaching proves excellent for Confucius Classroom

AN ACADEMY in Maidstone has become a centre of excellence for teaching Mandarin.

The New Line Learning Academy was handed the prestigious award by the Hanban Confucius Institute and will now be able to apply for additional resources, materials and teaching software.

Head of Mandarin at NLL, Annabel Parker, said: "As a Confucius Classroom, we have shown a commitment to the teaching of Mandarin Chinese across the curriculum and helping students understand more about Chinese culture.

"We have also developed our own regional networks of Chinese teaching schools and act as a regional hub, coordinating the sharing of information."

The NLL academy in Hubbards Lane is now one of 272 Confucius Classrooms established in 88 countries across the globe.

All Year 7 students who join the academy will be taught Mandarin as a compulsory subject until the end of year eight.

Scientist James is on a roll for international dancing competitions

■ BY JOE BILL

A MAIDSTONE school pupil is used to getting his skates on both at school and at home.

James Aburn, 15, is currently studying for his GCSEs at Sutton Valence as well as competing in Roller Dance competitions all over Europe.

The youngster has been putting his parents in a spin for almost a decade since joining the Medway Roller Dance Club in Gillingham.

And the student has cleaned up with 27 medals this year alone.

Mum, Michelle Aburn, said: "James first showed an interest in skating when he was six, after seeing our neighbour's children take part in a roller dancing pantomime at the Woodville Halls.

"He showed a natural flair from the start and has a good musical ear so he found it easy to keep in time."

He has been dancing competitively for eight years and has won the silver medal in the British Championships for the past two as a member of the British Roller Dancing Squad.

James and school friend Douglas

Ward even help run events at Woodlands Sports Centre, Gillingham, to help other youngsters get involved in the sport.

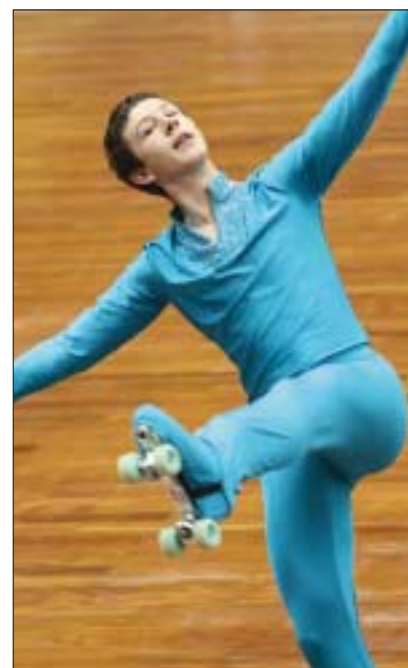

In October, the pair took part in the Cup of Europe in Sicily, where they were placed ninth and sixth respectively, against some of the best roller dancers in the world.

As well as being an accomplished roller skater, James plays keyboards and clarinet and is now working towards his Grade 6 piano standard.

However, he is also keen on his science subjects and is looking towards a career in science, rather than music and dance.

Sutton Valence School headmaster Bruce Grindlay said: "James is typical of many of our students who show talent and versatility in several areas.

"Our cross-curricular support and extra-curricular programme of activities means students are able to achieve academically and maximise their potential in a number of spheres, opening up a wide range of opportunities."

Frustrated to know that your child could succeed but is making slow progress?

Is it because of going unnoticed in a large school or a large class size?

Is your child lacking the confidence to flourish?

At Dover College, we are as keen as any other school to cater for the most able pupils and do it well. However, our recent inspection highlighted our great ability as a school to enable our more average pupils to achieve far better than their potential suggested on entry. By offering boys and girls timely affirmation and appropriate challenges in a caring environment, many of them surprise their parents and, more importantly, themselves with their achievements.

Dover College welcomes pupils at any time of the year if there is a place available.

GLUED TO OUR SETS: Talked about TV this year has been (from above, clockwise) Mad Men; the Three Leaders' Debate; Facebook movie, The Social Network; Ann Widdecombe on Strictly Come Dancing; and the much-anticipated Tron Legacy

A year to remember...

We look at the entertainment highlights, and lowlights, that made up 2010

IT'S been a funny old year.

A TV dietician learnt to faint on cue and Anne Widdecombe started to find herself liked by the general public.

In May, it seemed for a while after the general election that the country was in some kind of strange limbo.

For 48 hours no-one knew quite who the Liberal Democrats would side with and the media went into a state of speculative frenzy.

UKIP leader Nigel Farage found it all too much and even had an election day plane crash, but very soon it was back to some kind of normality and Britain faced up to the cuts and the recession.

Politics did give us the TV event of the year with the three leader's debates, though.

If the hype after debate one on ITV was to be believed, the Second Coming had taken place in the form of Nick Clegg.

On reflection, it's funny how things change so fast.

On the internet Twitter continued to thrive. The website is so much more than many first thought, and comes into its own when Prime Ministers insult northern pensioners, for example.

The site undoubtedly now helps shape public opinion.

As well as being highly amusing, Bigot-gate, guest starring Rochdale's Gillian Duffy, gave us one of the most unforgettable images of the year: Gordon Brown in a radio studio with his head in his hands, as he finally realised that, for him at least, the game was up.

For me, the TV show of the year was Mad Men, which deservedly won big at the awards ceremonies across the pond.

The drama set in a 1960s New York advertising agency may not sound thrilling but if you haven't acquainted yourself with this show then indulge yourself. If it's not the classiest show I've seen on TV then I couldn't tell you what is.

On BBC Two, The Trip breathed a bit of life into Steve Coogan's career. A bit repetitive maybe, but never has anyone had so much fun watching two middle-aged men bitch at each other over dinner doing impressions of Michael Caine.

Doctor Who welcomed Matt Smith into the role, but fans remain sceptical after the phenomenally successful David Tennant era.

A decent Christmas special is needed to convince the public Smith's really the man for the T.A.R.D.I.S.

Matters Whovian were not helped when the Daleks were given a camp makeover, decked out with bigger skirts and bright colours. It was more a case of "DOES MY BUM LOOK BIG IN THIS?" than "EXTERMINATE!"

Much better from the Beeb was Sherlock, with the brilliantly named Benedict Cumberbatch as the super sleuth.

The show was a marvellous take on Holmes, and far better than Guy Richie's so-so film adaptation.

Of course none of us should ever forget Phil Mitchell's unlikely crack habit in EastEnders.

Watching a grizzled angry man rifle through a rubbish bin in search of more drugs has never been so gripping.

The XX deservedly scooped the Mercury music prize with their moody gothic rock and Stevie Wonder showed the hipsters how to really do it at Glastonbury with a storming set.

Warpaint injected a fresh wave of sexy, female angst into rock, as part of tripped-out grunge revival of sorts and the various X Factor rejects and winners from past years scored big hits despite releasing songs that were purely piffle, with Jedward chief culprits.

The show has now become a self-fulfilling prophecy, with the losers and the winner top ten fixtures year round, and the Cowell's masterplan complete.

Next stop America for the X Factor juggernaut and Cheryl Cole, who in 2010 really cemented herself as the nation's sweetheart.

The year saw another glut of comic book movies hit the big screen but none were really too great.

Pick of the bunch was Iron Man II, but that did nothing that the first Iron Man hadn't done a lot better already.

Toy Story 3 was a winner though, and proved that Pixar can still sprinkle their magic on the industry.

The year previously James Cameron's Avatar proved 3D is here to stay and in 2010 a possibly jealous George Lucas announced that he was going to milk his cash cow once more and release his Star Wars films in 3D. Even die-hard fans groaned.

The best all-out blockbuster surely came from Christopher Nolan.

Inception was bold, smart and brimming with ideas and featured a fine performance from Leonard Di Caprio. OK, so many, me included, had to re-examine the plot after leaving their seats, but there's nothing wrong with having your mind blown once in a blue moon.

Unsurprisingly the Harry Potter film series continued, and many Muggles proclaimed it best of the films so far.

The Social Network was a surprise, however. A film about the origin of Facebook had me gripped and is one to see on DVD next year.

We end the year with Tron Legacy upon us. Early reviews have been good and if nothing else, it should be a true visual treat.

I end, regrettably, on a sombre note.

The Government's cuts will continue to make news in 2011 and many will hit home in the arts world in the near future.

Make no mistake, now is the time to get out and support your arts venues or you may find that your local theatre, gallery, cinema or arts group simply ceases to be.

Times are tough, but try and put some pounds by for a ticket or two if you can.

Happy Christmas... and stay entertained!

Kentish food in an idyllic rural setting

■ Elvey Farm

ELVEY Farm is a medieval farmhouse in a magical setting in the village of Pluckley.

Former Meridian TV presenter Jeff Moody is the man behind Elvey Farm, which he runs with his partner Simon and their small, friendly team.

The restaurant at Elvey Farm opened in December 2007, and has become one of the county's favourite destinations, not only for dining but also for a relaxing break, thanks to its nine-bedroom guest house.

Both restaurant and accommodation have been sympathetically and stylishly renovated, with features such as en suite wet rooms, slipper baths and the sumptuous Canterbury Suite, which boasts a four-poster bed and its own hot tub!

In the summer, Elvey Farm is a hive of activity as it is licensed for weddings and civil partnerships. Other summer events include Murder Mystery Evenings and Jazz Sundays on the lawn, weather permitting.

Among the popular starters are sautéed mushrooms in garlic and cream, served on a warm Kentish huffkin, and game meatballs with red onion relish – a hearty Kentish alternative to the humble meatball.

Main courses include Hunters Pie – a warming feast of seasonal game in a rich game and mushroom sauce, encased in a shortcrust pastry pie. This comes served with autumn vegetables and creamed mashed potato. Alternatively try the cassiolette of scallops – scallops in whisky with mixed peppers in a rich creamy sauce, served with basmati rice.

To round off your meal, desserts include homemade gypsy tart – a sweet and sticky tart made with condensed milk, muscovado sugar and sweet pastry, served with clotted cream, or warm pear tarte tatin, served with vanilla ice cream.

Set in 75 acres of Darling Buds of May country, the restaurant is open from 6pm to 10pm Monday to Saturday, and on Sundays from noon to 10pm.

PROFESSOR GREEN

Monday, December 20, Onyx Nightclub, Folkestone

MOBO award-winning rapper Professor Green heads up a night of dance, R'n'B and urban music at Onyx.

Professor Green's career has hit dizzy heights this year with massive chart success with the Inxs-sampling hit 'I Need You Tonight', which led to him teaming up with Lily Allen for Just Be Good To Green.

He's also worked with Mark Ronson, Tinchy Strider, Chipmunk, Emile Sande and Labrinth, and scored hits with songs Monster and Jungle.

The night features two exclusive shows. It all starts at 6pm with an under 18's event where Professor Green will headline a line up including Gracious K, Funky Dee and local talent, the artists Breeding Sequence and Jack Lumber.

At 10pm, it's a party for the over 18's when After Party kicks off with another exclusive performance from the man himself with a local support line up including Altered Mind State.

Tickets for the first show are £8 in advance or £10 on the door, and then £5 in advance or £7 on the door for the second show and are available from Onyx's website at www.onyxnightclub.co.uk.

Alternatively call the club on 01303 252200.

THE RED HERRINGS

Saturday, December 18, The Salvation Army Hall, Portland Road, Hythe

THE fabulous Red Herrings will be making a long awaited return to Hythe for a Christmas show.

The Christmas with the Red Herrings concert will put you in the festive mood, as the talented youngsters play a variety of music.

All the members of the band attended either the Harvey Grammar or the Folkestone School for Girls prior to entering university.

Fred Smith, who plays bass in the band, said: "We really are looking forward to getting back together again. The last time we played at the Salvation Army, it was a sell out, and the venue itself is both warm, inviting and acoustically good."

Richard Carroll, organiser, said: "These young people are to be admired, their musicality is outstanding and their easy listening jazz is a joy to listen too. I would invite anyone who would like their children to take up music to bring them along, they will be inspired."

The band will play at 7.30pm. Tickets are £5 for adults and £1 for children.

Call the box office on 01303 268354 to get yours.

THE MOUSE WHO SAVED CHRISTMAS

December 6 to December 21, The Brook Theatre, Chatham

THIS charming tale of a mouse who pulls out all the stops is aimed especially at children aged three to six.

The 50 minute-long story is packed with music, participation and you'll join Archie the intrepid mouse for his colourful and exciting adventures.

He needs help to make his Christmas party go with a swing and help save the day, as someone has played a trick on Santa.

The warm show will help fire the imaginations of youngsters and stimulate their senses, as they journey through different scenes in the main auditorium.

The play is the perfect way to get your children out of the house during the holidays and keep them stimulated and entertained.

It has been written, produced and directed by the theatre's resident professional performing arts companies: Play of Words Theatre Company, Icon Theatre and the Loop Dance Company.

BAD MANNERS

Wednesday, December 15, Quarterhouse, Folkestone

YOU may bust a blood vessel witnessing Bad Manners in action.

The famed two tone ska act, fronted by the indomitable singer Buster Bloodvessel, will be stomping on stage at the Quarterhouse.

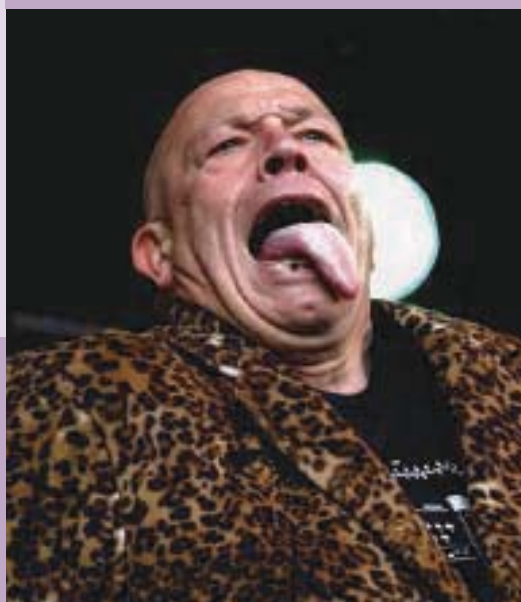

They'll be rattling through their famous hits Lip Up Fatty, Special Brew, Can Can, My Girl Lollipop, Just a Feeling and many more.

The band were chart regulars in the 80s and courted controversy on many occasions with their raucous antics on stage and off. They were known for brash performances and legendary live shows and this show will have you skanking until you can skank no more.

The band are always well-supported in the area due to Buster Bloodvessel's ties with Margate and performances at the Lounge on the Farm festival near Canterbury.

Support on the night comes from Max Splodge, hero of Splodgenessabounds and Two Pints Of Lager And A Packet Of Crisps fame, alongside a local ska band and some bonafide solid ska selectors filling in the gaps.

Tickets are £16 each. Buy online at www.quarterhouse.co.uk or by calling 01303 858500.

CHASE AND STATUS

Friday, December 17, Brake Hall, East Hill, Ashford

THE versatile electronic producers have supported The Prodigy and played at festivals including Glastonbury and V this year.

The drum and bass stars, whose real names are Saul Milton and Will Kennard, have been booked by Intimacy Promotions to play a 90-minute set, which will also feature MC Rage.

Organiser Joshua Heyburn said: "They will be playing everything that everyone knows as well as tracks from their new album which will be out soon. It's going to be huge."

Chase & Status' first album went to number two in the UK dance album charts and was voted the best album at the 2009 Drum and Bass awards.

The duo's recent tracks, End Credits featuring Plan B and Let You Go featuring Mali, did well in the singles chart.

Their support acts in Ashford will include electronic newcomers You And What Army, local dubstep DJ Mr Strong and Kent electronic pop rock band LightsGoBlue, now on tour in the United States with Enter Shikari. Doors are open from 8pm until 11pm, over 14s only. Tickets are £15 and available from HMV stores in Ashford, Canterbury, Folkestone and Maidstone. Or book online at www.seetickets.com or www.hmv.com.

Let experts put some Energy in to your hair

■ Energy Hair

A PERSONALISED style designed by an expert and a high quality service is what Energy Hair Care salon promises each and every customer.

The modern hairdresser's and beauty salon in Rainham, which changed its name last week from Annette's, prides itself on providing a first-class customer experience, from staff interaction to the overall finish.

A new washroom has just been constructed, sinks are now in a private room for greater privacy and there are more TVs on the main floor and in the washrooms, all of which adds up to a better experience and relaxing time for clients.

To ensure its standards are continually met, bosses train staff six days a week to refresh their talent and teach them new skills.

Owner Fraser Williams said: "We have a great team of staff offering the very best service care and passion about hair."

"They are very understanding with regard to clients' hair and are dedicated to giving it all they can to make the customer's time here a visit they will not forget."

"Our stylists are professionals, who interpret each client's needs to create a truly individual look."

"We believe that our business is a combination of people and image. Our customers are discerning and mutual respect between client and stylist is very important."

To determine which treatment from its extensive range is right for each client, the trendy salon offers a free one-to-one consultation with a professional stylist.

Mr Williams added: "We are a modern, passionate hair salon offering full hair services for all types of hair, through colours, haircuts and shapes. We tailor it to people's needs, face shapes and lifestyles."

"We never stop listening to what clients want from us and we are not frightened to change."

The acclaimed Bumble and Bumble range of products is now available and has been highly acclaimed by both customers and staff.

The salon is open between 10am and 6pm Monday to Friday, 9am to 4pm on Saturday and on selected Sundays.

WIN a wonderful weekend in Boulogne sur Mer

with The France Show 2011

14 - 16 January 2011 | Earls Court London

We've teamed up with The France Show 2011 to give you the chance to win three nights for two people in Boulogne sur Mer. You'll travel with P&O from Dover to Calais, drive 40 minutes to Boulogne and stay in the 19th century mansion L'Enclos de l'Evêché, the perfect base to explore the rich culture and history of Boulogne and the surrounding area.

Once settled, you'll begin a weekend packed with activities: choose from sand yachting, tennis, horse riding or a visit to Nausicaä, the National Sea Centre. You'll be offered an Aquagym session, a visit to Boulogne Castle, and a relaxing massage. Once you've built up an appetite you'll enjoy a gastronomic treat at Terrasses de L'Enclos.

To prepare you for your getaway you'll also receive a VIP visit for two to The France Show 2011, including wine tasting and lunch within the show's Mon Plaisir restaurant.

At the show you can shop in the largest French market outside of France; taste and buy artisan produce; learn from the experts in culinary demonstrations, tutored wine tastings and language classes; get ideas and unique offers from regional tourist offices and travel specialists and discover your dream property, with 1000s to choose from. See more at www.thefranceshow.com

Five runners up will also receive a pair of tickets to the show.

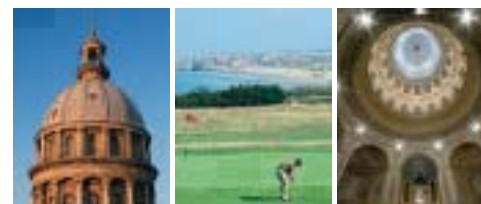

TO ENTER, send your answer to kentnews@kosmedia.co.uk with the subject: France Show Competition. Alternatively answers on a postcard to: France Show Competition, KOS Media, Apple Barn, Smeeth, Ashford, Kent TN25 6SR. Include your name, address and telephone number.

Enjoy the last in the Narnia series, but it won't be a tearful farewell

■ BY DAMON SMITH

THERE'S action and adventure afoot in the third book of CS Lewis's enchanting Narnia series, published back in the 1950s.

Following on from the daring escapades of Prince Caspian, The Voyage of the Dawn Treader sets sail without the two eldest Pevensie children, Peter (William Moseley) and Susan (Anna Popplewell), and press-gangs some fresh talent to carry the series into the choppy waters of the fourth book, The Silver Chair.

Director Michael Apted bows down to the current fad of 3D format but this version of the film barely takes advantage of the eye-popping possibilities.

Most of the cast return with the notable absence of Eddie Izzard as the voice of sword-wielding mouse, Reepicheep.

He's replaced by Simon Pegg, who rouses the cast into action by telling the children: "There is no honour in turning away from adventure."

The film opens with Peter away at university and Susan in America, consigning Lucy (Georgie Henley) and Edmund (Skandar Keynes) to a miserable stay with stuffy cousin, Eustace Scrubb (Will Poulter).

He collects insects and can't think of anything nicer than pinning his relatives to the wall like butterfly specimens.

"Note to self: investigate the legal ramifications of impaling relatives," he writes in his journal.

During a fight between Edmund and Eustace, a painting in the guest bedroom magically transports all three children to Narnia and on to the titular vessel captained by Drinian (Gary Sweet).

Eustace is aghast but Lucy and Edmund settle in quickly as Narnian royalty, reuniting with King Caspian (Ben Barnes) and Reepicheep (Pegg) aboard The Dawn Treader.

It transpires that Caspian is on a quest to locate the swords of seven lost noblemen and the Pevensie children pledge their support, encountering the White Witch (Tilda Swinton) and the majestic lion Aslan (Liam Neeson) along the way.

WAVE OF 3D: There's plenty of action and adventure in the finale of the Narnia series, The Voyage of the Dawn Treader

"Until you lay down the seventh sword, evil has the upper hand," reveals the magician

Coriakin (Bille Brown).

"To defeat the darkness out there, you must defeat the darkness inside yourself," he adds helpfully.

The Voyage of the Dawn Treader is the most crudely constructed of the films, loosely stitching together the set pieces with comical alterations between Eustace and his courageous cousins.

Inevitably, the new boy discovers the hero within, while Lucy learns valuable lessons about self-confidence and beauty.

Production design is impressive and the script introduces two monsters for the special effects-heavy finale that should delight younger audiences.

Poulter matures from comic relief to would-be hero – he's the central character of the fourth book – while Henley and Keynes make the most of their underwritten roles before they too bid a tearful farewell to their fantastical friends.

Our eyes remain dry.

NOT SO SIMPLE: Nigel Slater's cookery series just leaves us feeling inadequate

YOUR TV REVIEW

NIGEL SLATER'S SIMPLE SUPPERS: Channel 4, 9pm, Monday

■ BY JAMES ALEXANDRE

THE second series of Nigel Slater's Simple Suppers came to an end last week. The programme owes much to his namesake Nigella Lawson. The show is full of the same slow panning shots over steaming food that has been lovingly caressed onto the dinner plate by its creator.

Mr Slater also delivers his pieces to camera with a cheeky glint in his eye and narration that suggests cooking is as sexy as Fenella Fielding smoking on the chaise longue in Carry on Screaming.

This whole programme has touched a raw nerve with me. Not only do we have to put up with yet another cooking programme in primetime but it is also totally misleading.

To most of us a simple supper is something like beans on toast or an omelette but this is not the case with Mr Slater.

No he decides to rustle up pork loins in beer or cook alfresco with his home grown chard.

Each of the programmes in the series has some pretentious title like: "Too Good to Waste" or "Unsung Heroes".

In the former episode Nigel suggests all the imaginative things we can do with those unwanted bits and bobs that get forgotten at the back of the fridge or that reside in a dusty cupboard.

The only thing is, to make these old nuggets of potato and crusty cheese taste good Nigel, unlike the rest of us, has a whole host of weird and wonderful ingredients at his disposal.

Let's face it, a stale old cream cracker tastes great once you do a little caviar on top.

He is also a great advocate of grow your own too. Throughout the series not only do we get the chance to see Nigel's little green heaven, he also visits mere mortals who have managed to grow a turnip in their acre of home counties hillside.

It may taste nice but it's not an option open to the population who live in flats or whose terrace house has a garden only big enough for an old coal bin and a rotary washing line.

This really is aspiration TV of the worst kind. Don't kid us this is something we can all do. It just makes us feel shameful when we reach for the ready meal on the supermarket shelf or heat up cold tea in the microwave. If Nigel warmed his tea he would grow his own woodland, fell the trees, chop the wood and build a fire just to infuse his brew with that unforgettable charcoal flavour; just in time for the next series.

Xmas presents for music lovers

A TOP TOUCH: The Blue Mickey records a rich, crisp sound ideal for making demos

I'll admit that when I first took the Blue Mikey out of its box and plugged it into my iPod touch, I was dubious.

I mean, how good can a microphone you plug into an iPod dock really be?

I was pleasantly surprised.

For a start, it's small and sturdy with a solid hinge that allows it to be best positioned to record whatever it is you need to record.

And the sound it captures is both rich and crisp when you consider the mic's compact size.

The Mikey plus iPod combo turns the already-versatile Touch into the perfect field-recording tool. For journalists wishing to record an interview it's fast and simple, but the recording quality is also good enough for podcasts and perhaps even radio.

With this in mind, the Blue FiRe recording software (downloadable from the App Store) is the way to go.

This free app, written specially to work with the Mikey, is optimised to get the best out of the minuscule microphone and it really does work.

But voice recording is all very well... what about a real challenge?

I'm in a folk band called Los Salvadores, and often at band practice we've used the terrible microphones on our mobiles to record ideas, simply as a memory aid. This works to an extent, as long as all you're trying to capture is a quick snatch of singing or a guitar line here and there. Add in much more and it quickly becomes the sonic equivalent of a muddy puddle.

But recording whole songs with the whole six-piece band would be a powerful writing tool. Could the Mikey be the answer to providing instant reference demos? Could a mic this small really record six instruments with enough clarity and separation to draw meaningful conclusions about a track?

■ BY GARETH ARNOLD

I decided to put the mic to the ultimate test, and set up the Mikey-equipped Touch at a practice. I say set up... I launched Blue FiRe, pressed record and left it on a stool.

I was pleasantly surprised by the result. Forget phone microphones, the Mikey is in a different league. I'm not saying you can forgo full-blown studio set-ups quite yet, but if you are a musician needing a fast and convenient audio reference tool, you can do a lot worse (and pay a lot more) than this second-gen Mikey.

And the fun doesn't stop there. Blue added a line input for recording guitars, and the Blue FiRe app includes a number of export options, so you can record a track and send it to a web server to be downloaded and edited in the future.

It's conceivable that you and a number of Mikey-equipped mates could indulge in some pretty high quality online collaborations using nothing more than the plug-in mics and basic editing software.

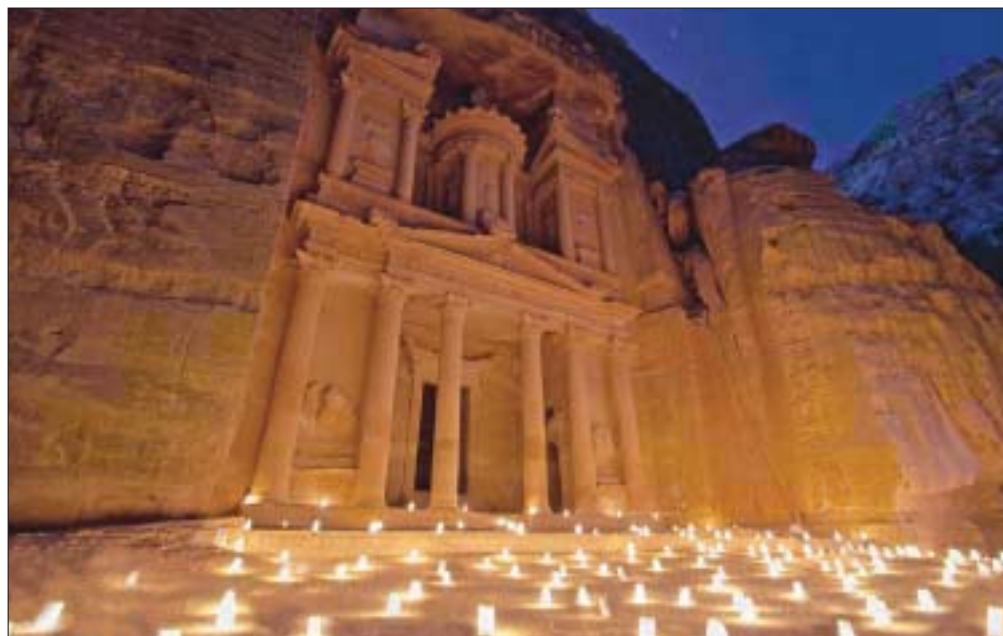

You can get your hands on a Blue Mikey for £59.99 from www.amazon.com.

Follow in the adventurous footsteps of Hergé's Tintin

■ BY CAROLINE DAVISON

IT'S more than 50 years since Tintin, the cub reporter and cartoon character who has since become one of Belgium's best-loved exports, first set foot in Jordan with his faithful lieutenants Captain Haddock and Snowy the dog.

His adventures there provide the backdrop for a film to be released next year by Steven Spielberg and co-director Peter Jackson.

Of course, Jordan tourist wallahs can hardly believe their luck.

One tour operator, On The Go Tours, has won the backing of Moulinart (holder of the rights to the Tintin adventures) to start guided adventure tours taking in the Wadi Rum desert, the Dead Sea, the Red Sea and Petra, and I was lucky enough to experience an early taste of what visitors can expect.

The local agent collected us at Jordan's capital, Amman, with a comfy 25-seater coach and a cool box – a wonderful forethought in this sweltering country.

Our first port of call was the Dead Sea, and en route we spotted the twinkling city lights of Jerusalem.

Our four-star hotel overlooking the beach was clean and spacious with welcoming staff.

Buffet breakfast next morning was such an interesting mix of British, continental and Jordanian fare that I expected to become the first person to sink in the sea's salty water.

Floating in the Dead Sea is a surreal experience. It's so salty that Caroline Davison was a guest of On The Go Tours which offers holidays to Jordan from six to 11 days, including the dedicated Tintin tour of Jordan and the Rose City. cuts sting like fury on entry into the water, but once you lie back and shut your eyes it's glorious.

I washed back to the shore like flotsam after keeping my eyes shut for a bit too long – which gave me an incentive to cover myself in Dead Sea mud, provided free on the beach.

We then headed towards our next stop – Little Petra. Dropped off in the hills a few miles from the hotel, we found Arabian horses waiting to transport us the final distance. Guides led us along the Al Hasanat path and two hours later we stopped for a glass of sweet black tea which replenished our energy levels to complete the journey to the hotel.

The next day it was off to the Unesco heritage site of Petra – the Rose City. Featured in the Tintin story Red Sea Sharks, it's well known as the place where the Holy Grail is guarded in Spielberg's Indiana Jones And The Last Crusade.

After walking just over a mile we emerged between the rock faces to the sight of the Treasury, Petra's most elaborate ruin which is hewn into a sandstone cliff. Wadi Rum didn't disappoint. Dropped off at the edge of the desert, we boarded a Jeep to get into the heart of the landscape, passing sand dunes and camel herders. The area is peaceful, relaxing and breathtakingly beautiful.

The full Tintin tour also includes two days at the Red Sea, with a boat trip to the Pharaon Islands and the chance of snorkelling. There's also a free day to relax before transferring to Amman for the journey home.

No doubt the Spielberg film will be wonderful – but it won't match the thrill of retracing Tintin's route across Jordan.

MOTORS NEWS

Hyundai's downsizer comes with all the toys

HYUNDAI cranks up competition in the mini-MPV sector from November 18 with the launch of its roomy yet compact ix20, priced from £11,595.

The niche was identified by the Honda Jazz, but the trend for downsizing has increased demand and choice and the Hyundai will appeal not just on pricing, but also with its five-year warranty.

Standard features kicking off three trim levels include height-adjustable driver's seat, air con, six airbags plus active head restraints, and six-speaker sound system with MP3/USB input.

Lexus hybrid cuts costs without compromise

LEXUS has announced an attractive entry price of £23,485 for its all-new CT200h executive hatchback hybrid.

With a road tax-exempt 94g/km CO2 emissions, potential average mpg of nearly 70 and a 10 per cent benefit-in-kind company car tax rating plus the upmarket badge, the petrol-electric model should make company car user choosers think twice.

But buyers will need to opt for mid-grade SE-L (£25,200) for the true executive leather seats, with heated front ones.

C3 gets Cherry aid to boost Picasso's sales

IT probably didn't need it, but Citroën's award-winning C3 Picasso MPV (from £12,695) has been updated and is now available with an ultra-low emission 110bhp diesel and six-speed gearbox.

The 90bhp sister diesel is also sold in a Blackcherry special edition (£15,195), with cherry red and black detailing, plus high spec including roof bars, cherry red diamond-tipped alloys, air con, cruise control and USB/Bluetooth connectivity.

All C3 Picasso diesels now escape road tax in year one and the whole range has energy-saving Michelin tyres.

DISTINCTIVE: The almost all-new Saab 9-5 delivers everything you'd expect from the brand – turbocharged generous spec, comfort, acres of space, and traditional design

Saab back from the brink with powerful new twist

ONLY Sweden's Saab – famous for original thinking – could have fabricated a Norse saga involving the brand's near death experience earlier this year.

The former General Motors (GM) brand is fast reviving though, in partnership with Dutch supercar maker Spyker, and tapping into much goodwill in the UK, where it is also celebrating 50 years in the car market.

Leading the revival is the long-awaited Saab 9-5 replacement – the previous car can trace its origins to 1997.

Though based on the classy Vauxhall Insignia during Saab's final years with GM, as much as 70 per cent of the new 9-5 is all our own work, say the Swedes.

The distinctive bodywork is certainly in the great Saab tradition – so, in Abba-speak, you could say the brand is re-Bjorn.

It is priced from £26,695 with a generous standard spec and hi-tech features including aircraft-style head-up display, adaptive lighting and cruise control, adaptive chassis, keyless entry and starting, dual-zone air con; dynamic parking assistance and all-wheel drive.

The engine line-up is all turbocharged – what did you expect from the turbo master brand? – and includes a 1.6-litre petrol unit that concedes little in performance to the slightly dearer diesel entry model, though fuel consumption is markedly inferior.

The 160PS (157bhp) 2.0-litre TiD Vector SE diesel we tested feels heavy and, like standard versions of the Insignia – not as nimble as you come to expect from BMW and Audi rivals.

But the ride comfort and long-distance cruising ability is impressive, with loads of space for those in the back and a massive boot.

The cabin isn't gaudy or innovative, but just carefully laid out in the Saab way; aficionados like to think Saab dashboards can trace their lineage back to the aviation parent company.

The powertrain and six-speed auto gearbox matches this refinement and the front-end styling won't let you down in the office car park.

I think the designer's hand strayed a little towards the rear of the car, but this opinion started a lively debate whenever I raised it with colleagues, so it's one of those "beauty is in the eye of the beholder" motors.

Absurd drivell is not social networking

Last week your blogger was on about Facebook and why it's a good thing.

Well, I disagree. I used to be on it, but the amount of drivell even people I know and like come out with is just astonishing.

When people who you sit next to you at work post so and so is "eating a sandwich" it's absurd.

Firstly, I can see that. Secondly, I just do not care at all.

What started out as a good way of keeping in touch with friends has now been reduced to the ultimate in triviality.

MP Ann's career now overshadowed

In a letter last week, a correspondent ranted against the anti-Ann Widdecombe statements issued by some comedians and I would like to add my thoughts.

What she achieved (or failed to achieve) as an MP will be forgotten by younger people who just see her as someone who played the fool on TV.

No wonder our elected representatives have so little respect, when they seem to do anything for money.

What next? Gordon Brown in "I'm a Celebrity..."?

Keep these thugs out of our towns

A number of letters were published last week about the English Defence League and a ban on it using a pub for a meeting.

These far right thugs and bigots have caused problems every time they march through a town, so let's keep them out of Medway.

Congratulations to the pub concerned. We do not need these sort of people in our area.

Message to Southeastern Trains – commuters are also taxpayers, says Trevor Moss...

SO THERE I was, on a high-speed train, having got on, on time, at Folkestone West, and heading for London.

But sure enough and yet again, I found myself at Omph while sitting outside Ashford station waiting for the connecting units to trundle down the track from Canterbury, the outcome being another delayed connection made at the platform.

I question whether computer platform is the right place for rolling stock to be connected, particularly Hitachi class 395 rolling stock.

The number of computer crashes as a result of cobbling two trains together makes a joke of the premium fare high-speed service.

Apparently no changes to the timetable are anticipated to provide for independent trains to run down the line and back from their respective branches until 2012, the same year that London Olympics authorities plan to commandeer all these trains for weeks, with Southeastern's full consent, to run between St Pancras and Stratford, to the detriment of regular users.

Anyway, I dutifully completed the questionnaire given to me en route asking for my views on Southeastern. It was a pathetic attempt to placate travellers by asking for their opinions after the lack of services due to the wintry weather of the previous week. These half-baked questions were not the ones I really wanted to ask or answer. Like, how on earth does Southeastern justify the hike in fares by up to 12 per cent when people are getting zero per cent salary reviews and an unreliable service?

If we were in France, we'd all be refusing to pay fare increases. In fact, in France, there would be a week of demonstrations where people would storm the trains and refuse to pay fares at all. Now there's a thought.

Of course, we know what the cop-out statement on fare rises is going to say: "But the Government has reduced subsidies, therefore the traveller has to bear the brunt, not the taxpayer."

Well, Mr Southeastern representative, I am a taxpayer and a commuter, but I don't see any tax rebate coming from the Government in relation to its reduced obligations to fund the rail network.

To cap it all, on the way home, I got to the station to find, yes you've guessed it, that the Folkestone-bound high-speed train was terminated at St Pancras, once more due to technical difficulties.

While waiting for half an hour at a bleak Stratford International, I saw four trains head in the direction of St Pancras, but no one at Southeastern thought to turn one of these around to form a replacement service. Eventually, it was standing room only on the next train.

With the level of criticism Southeastern is getting, from Kent MPs to the daily customer, this company isn't the future of travel in Kent but will be recognised as part of the failed history of privatisation of the rail network in this county. The sooner Southeastern loses its franchise the better.

and those actually affected should be in school anyway

I work in a university – I'm a senior manager. Within a few months of this administration, our students have realised what the rest of the country soon will: the con dem alliance is, and will be, a social, economic, political and moral disaster.

Nick Clegg's true colours are now showing. Education, like the NHS, should be free at the point of delivery.

There is more to higher education than a 'good' job for graduates. There is a wider social and cultural advancement from education from which we all benefit, and graduates are not the only ones to gain. Education should therefore be paid for through general taxation, as it was in the days of those of us from older generations.

What's to stop this government (or any future one) applying the same spurious argument about personal financial gains to A level students? By Clegg and Cameron's logic anyone studying at post-compulsory level should pay for the cost of their own education. It's WRONG, and we should all support the protesters until education is once again FREE.

John, by email

• In the ongoing debate about students and their protests – where were they when the illegal war in Iraq was going on?

Why no Vietnam-style protest there about the senseless loss of life on both sides? It seems to be that only when people's narrow interests are threatened that they take action, and then make themselves look stupid with their violence.

A narrow-minded, selfish nation is what we have become. So much for the "Big Society".

Rail fare robbery can't be justified

Regarding rail fares, which I can see have been a source of concern to your readers – how can price increases be justified when the current thinking is to get people out of their cars and on to trains?

The cost of a rail ticket from the Kent coast to Rochester is £17 for a day return.

That is extortionate – and it takes close to two hours.

During the recent cold snap trains were not even running.

The rail companies are behaving like modern day robber barons. Serves them right if trains run empty.

MPs' expenses made interesting reading

Regarding your article, Medway MPs claim £10k in expenses.

Useful article! I have done a comparison of staffing costs (the requirements of which are much the same for all MPs) between the current MPs, normalised to a year, and their predecessors in the middle year of the last parliamentary term.

The results are very interesting, showing a six-to-one ratio from then to now. I could do the same for other items of expenses, but that'll suffice for now...

Please help me find my missing cat

My black and white cat Loki has gone missing in the Delce area of Rochester, and I would dearly love to find her.

She is very small for an adult cat, is predominantly black with a white chest and feet and has a distinctive white line running along the top of her top lip. She's very friendly, playful and approachable.

She is a home-loving cat, who usually only ventures into my back garden in Castle Avenue, Rochester. I think she managed to get out the front door very late on the night of Wednesday, December 8.

I wonder if someone kindly took her in on that very cold night? I would be very grateful if you did this good deed, and would offer a reward if we could be reunited. Alternatively, she is micro-chipped, so passing her to any vet or the RSPCA would mean that I could be contacted. You could also put her over the back fence in of any house in Castle Avenue by going up the alley between there and Rochester Avenue, and I'm sure she'll find her way home.

It would be the best Christmas present ever to get her home again.

We have no need for another city here

I would like to register my disapproval of the plans to try for city status for Medway.

We already have one city in the area and it is Rochester – a historic place with associations to Charles Dickens and with a castle and cathedral which are among the best in Britain.

Medway is a river, not a place, and that is a fact.

If the towns were to be brought together as one so-called city, they would lose their identities.

Chatham and Rochester have absolutely nothing in common. They are two different places – one a town and one a city – and they should remain separate.

Pay-off a waste of critical resources

In these days, when times are hard, it is truly infuriating to find out that former Kent County Council boss Peter Gilroy has pocketed more than £200,000 as a pay-off.

And that is only part of the cost to the taxpayer – with tax and National Insurance it is £408,000, as I read in your newspaper last week.

How many teachers, policemen, firefighters or even street cleaners would that pay for over a year?

Probably about 20 – all of whom would be of far more value that a pay-out to some failed pen-pusher.

Out-of-this-world gig deserved support

ON your yourkenttv website I have seen three videos of the band Space Ritual performing live in Margate.

I attended this show and would like to say what a shame it was that the venue was just about half full.

A two-and-a-half hour show – complete with guest appearance by an "alien" who seemed to have beamed in from Star Wars' Mos Eisley cantina band – surely deserved a larger audience.

Those who were there saw a great show, but possibly there were not more people in attendance as the show was so poorly advertised. I only got to know of it via a fansite. It needed posters all over Margate.

Maintenance skills lost on younger generation

DIY knowledge that used to be passed down through the generations is now being "lost in the midst of time", Homebuilding & Renovating magazine has said.

The comments follow research by Saga Home Insurance, based in Sandgate, which found that younger people are now far more likely to rely on professional help to fix problems in the home, rather than carry out work themselves.

According to the report, 18 per cent of adults under the age of 40 would pay a tradesman to repair leaking or broken pipes in their property, compared to five per cent who would attempt to mend them personally.

Jason Orme, editor of Homebuilding & Renovating, said many younger homeowners now work such long hours that performing home improvement tasks in their spare time is the "last thing they want to do".

"There is no question that many young people don't tend to have those basic DIY maintenance skills anymore and it is disappointing," he added.

The research from Saga revealed over-50s were three times more likely than under-35s to repair pipes, while more than a quarter of the older age group would replace missing roof tiles, compared with just one per cent of their younger peers.

Market trends causing increase in cost to rent

INCREASED demand and a fall in the supply of new properties led to a rise in rents in the three months to the end of October, the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors (RICS) has reported.

In its latest survey, 39 per cent more surveyors reported seeing an increase, rather than a fall, in rents compared with a positive balance of 27 per cent during the previous three months.

The reading is now at its highest since the second quarter of 2007, tenant demand having been boosted by a shortage of mortgage finance and lenders' demands for high deposits.

Across the UK, London saw the biggest increase in rental prices and even prospects in the North, where rents have been falling, took a turn for the better.

The Institution's spokesperson, Jeremy Leaf, said: "The lettings sector has become increasingly strong over the past nine months, in contrast to the housing market which continues to slow."

South East the best in UK as house price slump continues

■ BY NICK AMES

THE LATEST house price index from the Nationwide Building Society has revealed a 0.3 per cent fall for the month of November compared with October – the fourth time in five months that prices registered a fall.

The latest fall means house prices are now just 0.4 per cent higher than this time last year, with the average UK home costing £163,398.

However, regional variations continue to be a factor – with the South East performing better than other parts of the UK.

Worst figures are for the north of England and Scotland while analysts say good rail and road links and an increase in demand for coastal homes have been factors in making the local market less affected.

But Nationwide's chief economist Martin Gabbauer said house price declines are unlikely to accelerate "in the months ahead".

"There is little to indicate that these sellers need to achieve a sale urgently for financial or economic reasons which means the downward pressure on house prices is only modest," he said.

There is little good news surrounding the housing market currently.

Earlier this week housing intelligence group Hometrack revealed their house prices figures for England and Wales fell for the fifth consecutive month in November.

According to Hometrack house prices fell by 0.8 per cent in the month to £155,000.

Other housing surveys suggest the market is cooling. The Land Registry reported a 0.8 per

FALLING MARKET: As house prices continue to fall mortgage lenders have also seen a drop in numbers of applicants cent fall in house prices for the month of October, while figures revealed a slump in the number of homes sold in October in the UK.

Expectations

According to government statistics 79,000 homes worth at least £40,000 or more were sold in the month, a fall of 11 per cent on an annual basis.

The number of new mortgages approved in the month fell to 30,766, down from 31,058 in September – representing the lowest level since March 2009 – when the country was in the midst of its worst recession in decades.

The figures confounded analysts expectations of a rise to 31,300 and continue to suggest the mortgage market will remain subdued over the coming months.

The Council of Mortgage Lenders and the Bank of England have both reported falls in mortgage lending over recent months.

Meanwhile, house prices are expected to continue to come under pressure as new instructions continue to outstrip buyer demand.

Householders encouraged to insulate their homes as cold snap and rising energy costs take a hold

THIS winter has delivered an unexpected early icy blast with some areas already having been subjected to six inches of snow, and with the sub-zero temperatures expected to continue this is an early indication of the long and extremely cold months ahead.

In fact, in some parts of Britain it was actually colder than Greenland, so those householders who failed to check out their home insulation earlier in the year will no doubt be really feeling the cold.

The National Insulation

Association (NIA) is advising that it's never too late to obtain the benefits of home insulation, and householders don't need to sit and suffer for the rest of the winter as there is still time to rectify a home's energy performance.

Alarming

A spokesman for the group said: "Just as your body quickly loses heat if you venture into the cold without extra clothes, un-insulated roofs and walls are letting more than 40 per cent of your home's energy escape so it is common sense to add a few layers.

"Also, with soaring energy bills and further increases on the horizon, householders should really question whether they can afford to allow this alarming rate of heat loss to continue.

"Cavity wall and loft insulation is straight forward and simple to install, not only making a warmer, cosier home, but dramatically reducing energy bills too.

"In fact, the average household can save around £265 per year and insulation pays for itself within two years meaning you continue to save money year on year.

"To find out if your home is adequately insulated and how you can improve its energy efficiency, contact a member of the NIA for a free survey. All members of the NIA are governed by a strict code of professional practice and are experienced to recommend the most suitable insulation option for your home as well as information about grants and subsidies you may be eligible for."

6 Wins For Higgins Homes at International Property Awards UK

Privately owned Essex house builder, Higgins Homes, has been awarded six separate awards at the International Property Awards, held at the Lancaster Hotel, London, on November 27, including the enviable Best Apartment UK award.

The awards, sponsored by Bloomberg Television and Google, cover both the residential and commercial property industries and recognise the highest achieving property companies in the UK. The judging panel of property experts from around the globe included Luke McKend of Google UK and Peter Bolton King, CEO of the National Federation of Property Professionals.

Higgins took home awards for Best Apartment in Hertfordshire for its ICE development, Best Apartment in Kent for The Old Hospital, Best Apartment in London for Prime at Hither Green, Best Development Marketing Campaign for The Old Hospital in Kent and the Best Developer Website UK.

The Old Hospital apartment complex in Kent also earned Higgins Homes the coveted title of Best Apartment UK. This award also saw Higgins Homes compete for the ultimate title of Best Apartment (World), against winners from other regions around the world, including the Asia/Pacific, the Americas, Europe and Africa.

Sales and marketing suites and show apartments are open at most developments from 10am to 5pm (closed Tuesday and Wednesday) but full details of opening times can be found at: www.higginshomes.co.uk

The future of local media

Would you like to be a part of an exciting and growing team developing our portfolio across Kent's towns and districts?

Media Sales Executives

We have an opportunity for highly motivated people to create and sell multi-media solutions in our market-leading portfolio of newspapers and magazines.

We're not looking for people to just take orders; we're looking for people who can provide first class solutions for our customers.

We believe good customer service is at the heart of our success and we want to recruit people who can develop excellent business relationships and present effective and innovative ideas that will provide real value and response for our customers.

Telephone Sales Executive

You will play the key role in selling advertising across our market leading portfolio of newspapers, websites and mobile products.

Candidates may possess a track record in telephone sales, combining excellent communication skills, tenacity and the ability to build relationships.

Ultimately, we need an articulate and assured sales person with a structured and positive manner.

Your might also be looking to enter media as a career within sale and this would be an excellent starting point.

We offer an excellent basic salary plus generous bonus scheme, ongoing training and career development, five weeks' annual leave, contributory pension and life assurance scheme (after qualifying period) and all the benefits of working for a large media organisation.

Please apply with your CV and covering letter in the first instance to:

BRONZE: Martin Brockman (1244) in Delhi

New points target dents Brockman's Korea hopes

CHANGES to the decathlon qualifying procedure have hampered Martin Brockman's hopes of featuring in next year's World Athletics Championships.

The Medway & Maidstone athlete is one of Britain's hottest prospects in the multi-event discipline after winning a shock bronze medal at October's Commonwealth Games.

He was hoping to build on his success at the World Championships next August, but a new qualification points target may put the event out of his reach.

The 23-year-old from Maidstone achieved a personal best of 7,700 points to win bronze in

ATHLETICS

Delhi, which would normally have been enough to qualify automatically for the World Championships. However, the sport's governing body, the IAAF, have increased the qualifying B standard to 8,000 points, which is likely to cut the number of competitors and threaten Brockman's appearance in South Korea next year.

He said: "It is slightly disappointing as the qualifying standard has gone up the year I want to qualify for the World Championships."

"However, winning a medal is probably unrealistic. The event is the biggest of the season next year, but if I don't make it then 2011 will just be stepping stone to 2012."

Since winning bronze, Brockman has returned to training but has received the added boost of qualifying for funding from UK Athletics.

He said: "The phone hasn't stopped ringing since the Commonwealth Games. Being recognised by UK Athletics for my performance has been brilliant. The funding is good, but I now have to keep performing to earn that, to be recognised is the main thing. It means I now get to use UK Athletics' facilities and coaches."

Red tape tangles Zulqarnain move

THE chances of Zulqarnain Haider signing for Lashings have receded after the club's owner David Folb said red tape had put a possible move for the Pakistan wicketkeeper on hold.

Folb met Zulqarnain last week after returning from Abu Dhabi, where he was finalising details of the Kent club's 2011 tour. Although the Lashings chairman says the meeting was positive, he is concerned about the wicketkeeper's residential status.

Zulqarnain applied for asylum in the UK after fleeing from the Pakistan squad during the series with South Africa in the United Arab Emirates last month, claiming he had been threatened by a match-fixing ring.

Lashings, based in Maidstone, immediately offered Zulqarnain a place in their squad for 2011, but Folb now admits the situation has become complicated.

"We were hoping to sign him and we thought we had a very good chance of doing a deal," he said.

"I spoke to his people and then called Zulqarnain before I went to Abu Dhabi and we agreed to meet when I got back.

"I did meet him face-to-face for the first time on Sunday night and he's a lovely guy, but he's obviously worried about his residential status and how long he's going to be able to stay in the country."

Folb did not rule out a deal, but said the paperwork needed to be in place.

"He is obviously very concerned with sorting out his work permit at the moment and he needs to dot the i's and cross the t's. We would also need to get clearance from the ECB to play him."

Lashings have in the past offered a safe haven to Rashid Latif when he was shunned by the Pakistan cricket establishment for making allegations of match-fixing.

They were also involved in bringing Zimbabwe's Henry Olonga to the UK after a black armband protest at the 2003 World Cup put his life in danger.

New faces grab late point after Stones put Boot in MAIDSTONE United boss Andy Ford admits the club are still a long way off being the finished article after watching his side snatch a point at Homelands on Saturday.

A much-changed Stones side to face Tooting & Mitcham included new signings Richie Stevens and Paul Vines, who arrived last week from Sevenoaks Town and Bromley respectively.

Maidstone started well but were left staring at another home defeat when Rob Haworth's header gave the visitors a first-half lead from a Karl Beckford corner.

Tooting frustrated their hosts and kept their lead until the 83rd minute, when another new face, Tony Boot, grabbed an equaliser from close range. Both sides had chances to win the game shortly after, but were left to rue their profligacy in front of goal.

Ford was pleased with the way his side finished the game, but said he needs to bring in more players to help move away from the Ryman Premier League relegation zone.

He said: "The last 20 minutes gave me a bit of joy and we could have gone on and won it. Boot is renowned for his six-yard play and once I get him a bit sharper he will be a real asset.

"Paul Vines was a threat all day and these are the type of players we need to bring in.

"I've got three or four players coming in this week that we will have a look at, but unfortunately we are right on the budget.

"The way we finished the game was a positive but the first-half wasn't a good performance and there is still an awful lot of work to do."

The Stones boss has also refused to rule out the return of top goalscorer Danny Hockton, who was part of the swap deal that brought

Maidstone starting XI

Subs used: Stevens (Stone 55), Whitnell (Boot 55)

Vines to the club.

Ford said: "If Vines doesn't want to join us then Danny will come back, but if Bromley want Danny then we will look at the situation if that happens. We will answer those questions in a month's time."

Elsewhere at the club, Ford has confirmed midfielder Jake Hobbs, Antonio Gonnella and defender Jermaine Darlington have been released.

Left-back Dean Hill, who joined Maidstone on a one-month loan from Conference South side Dover Athletic, has returned to Crabble to battle for a place in their side.

Club braced for New Year RFU eye-gouge decision

RUGBY

■ BY STEVE TERVET

MAIDSTONE Rugby Club will discover in January what action they will face for the deliberate gouge which blinded Gravesend player Clarence Harding in one eye.

After two weeks of silence, the RFU last week summoned the county town club to a hearing early in the New Year after a disciplinary panel ruled a Maidstone player deliberately injured Harding.

The incident, which happened in a Kent Cup tie at The Mote on January 17, left Harding with no sight in his right eye, but a police investigation found insufficient evidence to bring charges.

Maidstone player Matt Iles was cleared of making contact with Harding's eye or eye area at an RFU disciplinary hearing on November 23, although the panel made it clear the injury had not been a tragic accident.

Under rule 5.12, which covers acts prejudicial to the interests of the game and/or union, Maidstone could face a fine, points deduction or even relegation for the incident.

Chairman Andy Golding confirmed the club had heard from the RFU last week after a frustrating interim period, which saw the union's legal team debating what steps to take. With cases of this nature so rare, RFU bosses have been mindful of setting the correct precedent with Maidstone potentially facing a heavy penalty for the actions of one player.

Elsewhere, the club were due to face London 2 South East rivals and neighbours Aylesford Bulls last Saturday for the first of two derby games this season, but a frozen pitch forced the tie to be postponed.

Maidstone, who were drawn against London 1 South high-fliers Tonbridge Juddians in the Kent Cup last week, return to league action on Saturday when they host Deal &

Betteshanger. Aylesford Bulls have the chance to move into third spot in the division when fellow title contenders Sevenoaks visit the Jack Williams Ground.

• Former Maidstone junior Dan Caprice was part of the England Sevens side defeated in the final of the South African leg of the HSBC Sevens World Series.

The 21-year-old, who was also part of the England team that won the Dubai Sevens tournament two weeks ago, impressed once again, but he was unable to prevent a narrow 22-19 loss to New Zealand in Sunday's final.

Ford's focus earns reward as Masters targets card

GOLF

MATT Ford made the most of a rare start on the European Tour with an impressive tied 27th finish at the Alfred Dunhill Championship.

The Bearsted golfer only earned a spot in the field for the event in South Africa as a result of his successful display in a handful of competitions on the European Challenge Tour.

The 32-year-old made a slow start to the tournament with a four-over-par opening round of 74, which was dominated by seven bogeys. The Tudor Park professional responded well in the second round and comfortably made the cut with a four-under-par 68 to leave him in tied 31st position in the clubhouse.

Two dropped shots during the third round dented his hopes of a top-ten finish, but a one-under-par final round was enough to secure a creditable tied 27th.

Elsewhere, Maidstone golfer Dani Masters aims to secure a place on the 2011 Ladies European Tour (LET) as she takes part in the final stage of Tour School this week.

The 27-year-old, who lost her tour card in 2008 following a season plagued by injury, goes into the tournament with confidence after finishing fourth out of 80 golfers in the previous round of qualifying two weeks' ago.

She will be determined not to repeat last year's performance, which saw her fall short of a tour card.

The gruelling five round event begins today (Wednesday) with the top 30 players from a field of 104 earning the right to play on the LET next year.

LONG RUN: Natalie Gray put in an impressive display

Gray expectations turn to team gold

CROSS-COUNTRY runner Natalie Gray underlined her credentials with another impressive display to help the Great Britain under-23 team to a gold medal at the European Championships.

Gray, competing in her second European Championships in Albufeira, Portugal, on Sunday, was keen to improve on her debut in the series last year and she didn't disappoint.

The 22-year-old, who has been training at the University of New Mexico in the United States for the last three months as part of a PE and coaching degree, went into the event in form after finishing 15th in the National Championships in America.

The double Kent county cross-country champion was part of a six-strong women's under-23 side in Portugal. The Medway & Maidstone athlete maintained her pace throughout the race, held over a six-kilometre course, and eventually finished in an impressive seventh spot with a time of 20 minutes and 43 seconds.

She was the second Briton home behind third-placed Emma Pallant and was only 35 seconds adrift of the eventual winner, Turkey's Meryem Erdogan.

Her performance alongside the rest of the Great Britain squad was strong enough to earn the team gold medal for the second year in a row, finishing two points ahead of Russia.

The result should increase Gray's chances of consolidating a place in the Great Britain cross-country set-up.

Her next event is likely to be the Kent Cross Country Championships at Detling Hill, where she will look to defend her title on January 8.
